The long term structure of housing finance also poses issues of asset liability mismatch for non-bank lenders. Take out financing & securitization are some of the avenues for mitigating the long tenor risk of financing this sector. The current situation of large unsold housing inventory with developers is likely to get exacerbated in case funding resources with HFCs get constrained and trigger potential problems for the sector. QUARTER II – FY 2019-20

JULY 2019

7	Roundtable for discussion on need for DFI kind institutions	July 15, 2019	Mumbai Non Residential	M P Baliga
Maturity mismatch between the assets and liabilities poses problems to banks as far as financing to huge projects and infrastructure sector is concerned. In view of the very long gestation periods required for projects on one hand and short term nature of the banks' funding sources, banks find it difficult to extend long term loans to the infrastructure sector, despite introduction of measures like 'Take-out' financing and permitting banks to issue 'long term bonds'. India's corporate bond market is not well developed and as such it hinders companies engaged in project activities from directly accessing the debt market. Therefore, while the financial requirement for infrastructure projects is huge, the main issue is how to meet the gap between the demand for funds from the bankable and commercially viable projects and the supply of funds from the banking system. Earlier, the Development Financial Institutions used to mainly cater to the financing needs of the infrastructure. This Roundtable would like to discuss the need for having a DFI kind of structure to meet the long term financing needs in the economy and what could be the possible liability structure so as to reduce asset liability mismatches and ensure safety and soundness of these type of institutions.
